EXPECTATIONS OF SLACC TEAM MEMBERS »

SERVICE »

- Wednesday nights are about the middle school students. They always come first.
- SLACC is meant to be a community. We want you to be friends and to love each other well, but as soon as the night begins your priority is connecting with the middle school students and making them feel at home. Does that include encouraging & helping each other lead? Of course. But the middle schoolers are your top priority!

LEADERSHIP »

- Being a leader does not always look flashy or glamorous - sometimes it means doing the jobs that no one else wants to do, and doing them with a smile. Leading at EPIC might mean being on stage, and other times it might mean doing dishes in the cafe. BOTH are extremely important, equal in value, and necessary to becoming a true servant leader.
- Because you are on SLACC, most of our students will automatically look up to you - which is awesome, and also a great responsibility. Make the most of it!

ACCOUNTABILITY »

- SLACC may sometimes be a place that steps on your toes and pushes you outside your comfort zone, but if we aren't stretched, we'll never grow.
- The best teams help make each other better. Joining SLACC is saying that you are willing to be held to an appropriate standard of character which represents EPIC, UCUMC, and Christ, well. (Note: this DOES NOT mean "perfection", it just means having a willingness and desire to grow.)
- How you portray yourself on social media, matters. What you say and do both at EPIC and at school, matters. Drug/alcohol use, inappropriate sexual behavior, and bullying of any kind are all incompatible with the message of Jesus.

CONSISTENCY »

- It's really hard to get better at something—whether it a sport, an instrument, a hobby, etc.—if you never practice. The same is true for being a leader; it absolutely takes repetition in order to improve. This is why we stress the importance of being plugged in at EPIC as much as possible.
- Wednesdays are for you to serve and pour out into the middle school students, Sundays are for you to be poured into. How can you pour out if you aren't consistently being filled up? For this reason, the expectation is that you are coming on AT LEAST 2 Wednesdays and 2 Sundays a month. Sundays are not optional as a SLACC member. If those commitments aren't possible, please let Jeff, Holly, or Phil know.
- Why aren't Sunday nights optional? Ultimately, we believe you being engaged on Sundays is crucial to SLACC growing as a team, and especially to you growing in your personal faith. We believe you need a space just for you. We also believe that on SLACC, you're our HS leaders all the time, not just Wednesdays...so we need you to be the leaders that you are being on Wednesdays, on Sundays as well.

CHRIST-CENTEREDNESS »

- At the end of the day, nothing we do matters unless our heart is focused on a relationship with Jesus. Following Jesus is what allows us to show love, compassion, grace, and patience to the middle school students, our classmates, our friends, and our families.
- SLACC is a safe space to study scripture, pray, worship, and ask questions. Jesus never calls us or sends us out alone, but always in community: community that is committed to strengthening and encouraging one another.

I affirm all of the expectations listed above. I understand that being a member of the SLACC Team is a privilege and violating any of the expectations of SERVICE, LEADERSHIP, ACCOUNTABILITY, CONSISTENCY AND CHRIST-CENTEREDNESS may result in temporary probation.
